Dear Friends in Christ,

I don't often repeat a column that I ran several years ago, but this one bears repeating. God bless you!

Shakespeare, in the words of Juliet, asked, "What's in a name? That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet." He meant, of course, that names don't always tell the story – that Romeo, despite his family name, was just as good as any of Juliet's family. Today's Gospel reading is a good example of that notion.

St. Mark tells us Jesus encounters a blind man named "Bartimaeus...the son of Timaeus." It is interesting that this account is the only one in the Synoptic Gospels where a person healed by Jesus is mentioned by name. Also interesting is that Mark's story gives the blind man's name twice – once in Aramaic and once in Greek. Why do you suppose Mark would put such an emphasis on the name of the blind man? What point is he trying to make?

In many of the world's cultures, including the Jewish culture of Jesus' time, the name of a person gives insight into the character of the person. For example, my given name is William. In its earliest form, William meant strong-willed or firmly resolved. It has also come to mean hard-headed, though I don't know how anyone could possibly apply that to me!

Similarly, Bartimaeus' name holds meaning about him. In Jesus' day Jewish religious belief was that blindness was a punishment from God for some sin or impurity (compare this to the story in John's Gospel about the healing of the man born blind – see John 9.) The name Bartimaeus (bar = son of; tame' = defilement) means "son of defilement." Bartimaeus' blindness was thought to be the result of his or his parents' sin.

Biblical scholars also suggest a second meaning in the name. In Greek the name might be understood as "son of honor" (timÉ). Is Mark trying to get his readers to look past the external aspects of Bartimaeus' name and see the inner, God-given worth of the man?

Think about it. Blind beggars lived difficult and impoverished lives in those days, though it's not so different now either. By restoring sight to the blind man, Jesus was doing more than curing physical blindness. He was pointing to the essential dignity each one of us shares as children of God. He was giving Bartimaeus the means to stand up and live life as he was meant to do.

There's another point to this Gospel story, too. What happens when we ourselves are healed of our blindness? Whether it is physical or spiritual doesn't matter. Do we respond in faith when Jesus gives us the power to live our lives as we were meant to? Or do we continue to live as blind beggars sitting in misery on the side of the road? In baptism and the life of faith, Jesus opens our eyes so we may live life to the full – with all the dignity and energy of true children of God. Now what are we going to do about that?

175TH ANNIVERSARY NOTES

This week we continue our examination of the ministry of Father Ferdinand A. Schreiber, our fifth Pastor. Father Schreiber was astute and thoughtful. His foresight helped him recognize that Mansfield's expansion from the late 1870's onward pointed to substantial growth in the Catholic population of the area as waves of largely Catholic immigrants settled in the community to fill the jobs that arose with the growth of business and industry here.

The most significant aspect of the increase in the Catholic population of Mansfield was the increased burden it placed on Mansfield's only priest. That was Father Schreiber's lot in those days. During Father Schreiber's time here St. Peter's received our first assistant pastor in recognition of his rapidly increasing burden. Father Joseph R. Waechter was appointed as Parochial Vicar in 1909. Father Waechter was followed at two year intervals by Fathers John W. Schmits and Father James J. Gough. After them, Father Karl A. Brand served from 1913 to 1920.

As noted previously, Father Schreiber was actively raising money to build a new, larger church as early as 1904 or 1905. Architect William Guinther of Akron was engaged to design and oversee the construction of the new church. In 1909, Father Schreiber presented drawings of the proposed construction to the community. In 1910 he received permission to begin the construction of our fourth and present church. On May 14, 1911, Bishop Farrelly of Cleveland came to lay the cornerstone of the new church in a grand, two day celebration which included a parade and banquets and the celebration of confirmation for the young people of the parish.

Construction of the new church would continue until 1917 although Masses were said in the basement of the church as early as September of 1911 and Masses began in the main body of the church in September of 1915 while the building was still being completed. With all the scaffolding and work we've seen in the church over the past several months it should not be difficult to imagine what it was like to attend Mass in the church back then!

There is no doubt that Father Schreiber was well loved by the people of this parish. He was said to have a very sympathetic ear and was very zealous in his work as a priest. He was known to have fostered a number of priestly vocations from the young men of the Parish. Three sons of the Parish were ordained priests during Father Schreiber's time here. They were Father Leo Brissel (ordained 1913), Father (and later Bishop) Michael J. Ready (ord. 1918), and Father John Maurer (ord. 1920). Father Schreiber inspired other sons of the Parish to pursue priesthood: Father Paul Brissel (ord. 1927), Father Kenneth Hans (ord. 1933) and Father William Pfeifer (ord. 1936).

THE HOPE AND PROMISE OF REDEMPTION

The prophet Jeremiah prophesies the end of the Babylonian exile. He describes how the weak and sorrowful people now return with joy. These are the scattered people of God: the blind and the lame, the mothers and pregnant women. They shall be led along an easy road so that no one will stumble. The Lord's kindness and mercy are on all these weak and broken people.

Here and in Psalm 126 we find the most lovely poetic images of God's love and care for us. "Those who sow in tears / shall reap rejoicing. Although they go forth weeping, / carrying the seed to be sown, / they shall come back rejoicing, / carrying their sheaves" (Psalm 126:5-6). Although God had to punish Israel for their many sins, God never forgot them, scattered as they were, and brings them all back to the land of their ancestors, there to flourish and be joyful again. We can see in this the hope and the promise of our own redemption, gathered from the far corners of the earth into the great banquet of God.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

Today is the feast of the Forty Martyrs of England and Wales, the first representative body of many Catholics who died for their faith between 1535 and 1679 to be beatified or canonized. Almost all of them died at Tyburn, a place of public execution near today's Marble Arch in Hyde Park, London. The first to suffer were Carthusian monks who refused to swear an oath supporting Henry VIII as supreme head of the Church in England, and the last was Saint Oliver Plunkett, the Primate Archbishop of Ireland. The method of execution was particularly vile, since the condemned were hanged and their living bodies quartered to be displayed around London as a horrific warning.

Today, the tree-like gallows provides the design of a religious symbol, the canopy over the altar of the martyrs in Tyburn Convent. There, at the heart of the bustling city, a monastic community of women practices contemplative prayer and "spiritual hospitality" in the Benedictine tradition. Oddly, the community is French in origin; it was expelled from France two centuries ago when France outlawed contemplative monastic life. England, where the laws against Catholicism had been lifted, invited the community in. In gratitude to their new homeland, and in honor of those who gave their lives for the Catholic faith, the nuns came to Tyburn. In the public crypt, coats of arms stand for each of the 350 martyrs. A Web site visit is possible at www.tyburnconvent.org.uk.

When Jesus asked the blind man "What do you want from me?" he asked for sight. If Jesus asked you the same question, what would you say? Okay, that is your prayer.
