It dates me, but I remember an episode of the television series "The Odd Couple" with Tony Randall and Jack Klugman. I think it was Randall's character, Felix Unger, who taught me the old saying, "When you assume, you make an ass out of you and me," playing on the spelling of the word.

The truth of that saying stays with me even now, 40 years after the TV show ended. It's particularly apt at this time of the year, in Advent, when we learn that God seldom comes to us in ways we expect. Our expectations and the ways in which we look for the Lord aren't all that different from those of the Israelites, who looked for a mighty king to rise up, overthrow their oppressors and establish Israel as the Kingdom of God on earth.

They weren't looking for a baby born into poverty and weakness in a cattle stall. They weren't looking for the carpenter who preached a radical departure from the established religious outlook of their time. And they certainly weren't looking for a "King of the Jews," condemned to death as a common criminal, subjected to capital punishment between two other criminals. They allowed their assumptions about the Kingdom of God as they expected it to be to cloud their senses so they couldn't recognize the Kingdom when Jesus told them it was in their midst.

We look back to his birth, sanitized and sweetened by our desire to focus on the newborn baby, the Son of the Virgin surrounded by adoring parents, chubby little angels and antiseptically cleansed sheep and hay. We fail to see the humiliation and un-majestic conditions of Jesus' coming into the world. Like our ancestors in faith, we fail to see the reality unfolding in front of us.

Amid the "Glorias", incense and candles, carol singing, and bell ringing, we tend to forget that Jesus comes to us in what Saint Teresa of Calcutta called, "that distressing disguise." Am I disparaging the beauty and glory of our liturgical celebrations? No. But it is a fact that our liturgy is meant to help us recall the work and presence of God in the world. We are meant to remember and our memory should be an honest one. There was no crown of victory, no glory of resurrection without the humiliation of the cross and the death of Jesus, which he modeled for us in his ministry and in the hours before his execution.

All of this goes to say that our Advent observance should be made with open eyes. We look for the Lord and we should look for him where he will be and not where we expect him to be. Jesus, Son of God, eternal King, doesn't live in a palace. He lives among the poor, the refugees and the foreigners, the neglected and the elderly with no one to care for them; among the downtrodden and the imprisoned. He lives among those who dwell in fear and darkness, among those who wait longingly for light and those who yearn for freedom and peace. He lives in our brothers and sisters – those to whom we give no thought and barely even a glance. He lives in us so that we may share him with all those others!

Do we want Advent and Christmas to have real meaning and joy? If so, we ought to pray for open eyes and open hearts so that we can see and love without expectation of reciprocity or repayment. We must seek, Jesus "...in that distressing disguise." If we are to follow him, we must go where he goes, even to the Cross at the end of the Calvary road with only our faith to reassure us that it isn't really the end, but only the beginning of the life Jesus offers us.

PRISON MINISTRY CORNER

As noted last week in this Corner, the Parole Authority system may sometimes be difficult to understand. It is often very difficult to determine who gets released, at what point in his/her sentence, and how does an inmate continue to improve on the "inside" after he/she has met all the requirements and completed all the stipulations set by the Parole Authority at an earlier hearing. Perhaps these words shared by one of our RiCI brothers will give us food for thought as we lift all our incarcerated brothers and sisters and their families in prayer this Christmas season. This morning I was informed that I must serve three more years with no certainty I will be released after those years. I am well and trusting in God's plan for my life. Not my will, but Thy will. Thank you to everyone for their prayers. Please continue to pray for me.

175TH ANNIVERSARY NOTES

In this column, we continue our look at the pastorate of our seventh Pastor, Monsignor Rupert C. Goebel. In 1941 Monsignor Goebel celebrated the 30th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood with a Mass and reception offered by the various sodalities and fraternal groups in the Parish. In 1942, Monsignor Goebel began planning for the Centennial of the founding of the Parish in 1944. A complete renovation of the interior of the Church was planned.

Beginning in 1944, Monsignor Goebel hired Hungarian-born artist John (Janos) Bernat to design and execute an artistic renovation of the interior of the Church. Bernat had studied extensively in Europe and was the recipient of scholarships to study in Florence and in Rome. The project was expected to take two years to complete. The previous interior scheme of the Church (a combination of salmon and sea-foam green painted surfaces) gave way to a much more colorful and classically articulated décor. Every exposed surface was repainted and covered with murals or stencil work done by hand by the artist or one of several St. Peter's and public school students who assisted him.

Parishioners and students were often asked to stand as models for the biblical characters and scenes he designed. While many of Bernat's smaller works have been lost over time to deterioration, smoke damages or age, a large number of Bernat's works at St. Peter's still endure. Bernat's daughter, Suzanne, presented the Parish with one of her father's oil paintings, The Sacrifice of Isaac by Abraham, in 2009. The Stations of the Cross at St. Peter's were designed and carved by Bernat's wife, Toledo-born sculptress, Martha Milligan, who studied at the Cleveland Institute of Art and who met and married Bernat while studying in Budapest.

Although the actual centennial year was 1944, Monsignor Goebel decided that the celebration of the anniversary would only take place when the servicemen and servicewomen fighting in World War II had returned to Mansfield. A four-day gala celebration of the centennial was held from November 1 – 4 in 1946. In addition to the completion of the renovation and the 100th anniversary of the parish's founding, Confirmation and other sacraments were administered by Bishop Alter during that festival.

The highlight of the festivities was a Solemn Pontifical High Mass offered by Bishop Alter and attended by nearly 900 people in the Church. The homilist for the Mass was Bishop Michael J. Ready, an alumnus of St. Peter's School and the fifth Bishop of the Diocese of Columbus, Ohio. In his homily, Bishop Ready exhorted the Catholic faithful of Mansfield to persevere in the Faith while keeping in mind the heroic labors of all those who came before them and whose efforts built such a vibrant and strong community of faith. It was a celebration long remembered and savored by all who attended.

In 1948, Monsignor Goebel was honored for 25 years of service as the Pastor of St. Peter's. His leadership during that quarter of a century was solid and reliable. One of the many resulting advances of the Faith in Mansfield in those days was the founding and establishment of St. Mary of the Snows Parish in 1949 in the northeastern quadrant of Mansfield and Madison Township. It was at this time that St. Peter's, under Monsignor Goebel's leadership, began actively raising money for a new, modern school building to replace the red brick church/school building first erected by Father Magenmann in 1890.

We will continue our look at Monsignor Goebel's pastorate in the next issue of the bulletin.

MEMORIES AND DREAMS

Throughout our lives, we retain the language and habits of our native region and family of origin. Should we return to our home after a long absence, we quickly revert to its familiar speech and practices? Our deep memory is reflected in old stories and words and speech patterns. This familiarity runs like an underground river and accompanies us wherever we go.

Not only do we remember, we are incorporated into and made part of a greater memory. In remembering and recollecting, we are in turn gathered up and re-collected.

Today we remember Mary, a small figure travelling the country roads to visit Elizabeth. All the great pronouncements and dreams of the prophets point to this time when the Lord's words to Mary would be gathered and fulfilled. The memories of her people are alive in her, and memories of her nourish our own living faith.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

In ancient pagan Rome, these days in mid-December were a time for general slacking off at work and far too much rejoicing. The period of leisure after the harvest and a whole cluster of pagan festivals were a force for the church to reckon with. The Saturnalia, breaking out on December 17, was a time of high living and loose morals. Christians were advised by their bishops to drop out of the mayhem and do some serious fasting. A famous church council at Saragossa in Spain made a season of fasting mandatory from December 17 to December 23, exactly coinciding with the Saturnalia. The bishops at that time were perhaps less concerned with preparing for Christmas than with resisting the kind of loose living going on.

Modern times have restored a bit of the Saturnalia spirit to our culture, so that a general period of partying with a vague connection to religion is now upon us. How does a Christian keep balance? The practice of charity by remembering the poor in our gift-giving, of hospitality in finding a place at our holiday tables for the poor and lonely, and of daily prayer in the home and at church are great helps. Although Advent is not a penitential season like Lent, it is a time for making room in our lives for what matters most.
